

FEEDBACK SYSTEM

Feedback is a powerful tool for the improvement of student learning, yet complex to implement effectively. Feedback involves processes in which learners make use of performance-related inputs to enhance their work or learning strategies. New paradigm feedback practices place learners at the center of feedback processes and emphasize student generation of insights to inform their work. To harness these insights productively, learners need feedback literacy: the capacity to make the most of feedback opportunities.

Government College Bishrampur authorizes Internal Quality Assessment Cell to collect the data from its four stakeholders namely students, teachers, alumni, and employers for every academic session. After the collection of data, it is analyzed meticulously by the member of the committee. The committee prepares a report on feedback and sends it to the Principal of the college. He calls a meeting and requisite action is taken.

This section is divided into the following part: -

1. Sample of Student feedback form.
2. Sample of Teacher feedback form.
3. Sample of Alumni feedback form.
4. Sample of Employer feedback form.
5. Analysis of student feedback through statistical tools and techniques.
6. Analysis of teacher feedback by statistical tools and techniques.
7. Analysis of Alumni feedback by using statistical tools and techniques.
8. Action was taken report was prepared on the basis of an exhaustive investigation of randomly selected feedback forms.

Though, there is no placement cell exists in this college. Our student gets recruited by a local business class. To know the industry requirements and suitability of our college graduates we collected feedback from nearby businessmen specially targeted to Jhanbhagidari member of the college. A purposive sampling technique is used.
